DETAILED ACTION

Status of Claims

Claims 30, 31 and 34-68 have been canceled.

Claims 71-99 are newly added.

Claims 1-29, 32, 33, 69 and 71-99 are currently pending and are subject to an election requirement as set forth in details below.

Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species: 1) cartridge with cover that is sealingly adhered with a mating surface of a body on all but one edge of a mating surface of the body, the all but one edge being unsealed to the cover (see claim 1); and 2) cartridge with cover that is sealingly adhered with a mating surface of a body wherein a cavity of the body is completely sealed (see claim 71).

The species are independent or distinct because of the following reasons.

The species are directed to related products. The related species are distinct if the inventions as claimed do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants; and the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function and effect. In the instant case, the species are mutually exclusive because in one species the cover completely seals the mating surface of the body and in the other species the cover does not completely seal the mating surface of the body, and such species of a microarray cartridge are not obvious variants. The species have a materially different design, mode of operation, function and effect because the species with a cover that completely seals the mating surface would be designed with a different access means to the interior of the cartridge from the species with a cover that partially seals the mating surface, and thus the two species would operate and function differently regarding access to the interior of the cartridge.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for one species is not required for the other species, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claims are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species.

MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

The Office acknowledges Applicant's remarks and arguments made in the response filed April 28, 2006. In view of the amendment to claim 1 and the newly added claims 71-99, the requirement for an election of species was found to be appropriate, as indicated above. Upon election of a species, the Office will accordingly address and respond to Applicant's remarks and arguments that were made in the response filed April 28, 2006.
